An exhibition representing architects based in Los Angeles. This first ever architecture show at the JACCC will include models, drawings, photographs, and plans from contemporary architects' and landscape architects' studios. Works featured explore innovative ways of dealing with our environment that are artistic, creative, and environmentally responsible, as well as infusing eastern and western architectural traditions.

This exhibition is dedicated to the memory of Toshikazu Terasawa.

JACCC Programs are made possible in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, California Arts Council, the City of Los Angeles, Cultural Affairs Department, the James Irvine Foundation, and the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund Program for Exemplary Community Arts Centers, and the Working Capital Fund for Minority Cultural Institutions.
